PASTOR'S CORNER

Dear friends,

Last Sunday the Lord exhorted us to be rich in what matters to God, not on passing things. Today, He continues to invite us to desire that which no thief can steal, nor moth destroy: an inexhaustible treasure in heaven. The principle that follows is of profound divine and human wisdom: "where your treasure is, there also your heart will be."

This means that we can and should train our heart to desire the right things. We are not supposed to not have any desires or aspirations, but to desire what is good, what lasts, what truly fulfills. And this education of the heart leads to the other main point highlighted by the Lord in the Gospel: to be awake, aware of the presence of the Lord, of his blessings, and the many things we receive from Him. A heart that tries to be constantly raised to the Lord and aware of his presence will be well disposed to respond to so many gifts.

In Christ,
 Fr. Daniel
