Dear friends,

FROM FR. DANIEL

The Lord asks today: Why do you stand here idle all day? Now, unlikely as it is that we are idle, as in "not busy," we should be open to this question. Is there any way in which we might be idle? And so, Jesus says, You too go into my vineyard.

A vineyard is not necessarily a place full of ornamentation, but rather, a place for work. Again and again we read in Scripture about the vineyard as an image of the Chosen People, a piece of land very dear to the Lord. God, then, did not only see the vineyard as a place of production, but as the cherished land where He worked, the land He protected and cared for.

The Church is the vineyard where we are called to work. In the Church we are called not just to receive but to give, to be active cooperators of God's own work. The Lord says to each one of us, You too go into my vineyard. We are all called to work, to serve, to evangelize, to share the good things we receive in the Lord's vineyard. May we respond generously to this call.

United in prayer,
Fr. Daniel
